Transit Oriented Development (TOD) Supporting at Central County BART Stations

Need/Purpose

Successful transit-oriented development depends on creating an environment that is engaging to bicyclists, pedestrians and other transit users as well as those who access the station by car. Public improvements are required to create a safe and inviting place for people to live, work, and use local services including public transit. These funds would be used to support future access improvements at the Concord, North Concord, Pleasant Hill and Walnut Creek BART stations.

Project Location

Possible Segmentation

Improvements can be phased by station.

Issues

None

Current Status

BART and jurisdictions are in discussions about future development at one or more of these BART stations.
